OH, LORD GOD.....! IS PRAISE STILL IMPORTANT IN OUR LIVES?

by Charles Whitehead

For my birthday, our editor Kristina gave me a devotional book by A.W. Tozer ("Tozer on the Almighty God" published by Wing Spread Publishers), a highly respected evangelical pastor who died in 1963. I waited until January 1st to start the daily readings, and to my delight found these thoughts in the first paragraph: "To be articulate at certain times we are compelled to fall back upon 'Oh!' a primitive exclamatory sound that is hardly a word at all. But when the heart, on its knees, moves into the awesome Presence...the worshipper can only cry 'Oh!', and that simple exclamation becomes more eloquent than learned speech and, I have no doubt, dearer to God than any oratory". Tozer goes on to point out that in theology there is no "Oh!" because theology is all about the intellect, and what we can understand expressed in words. But when God himself appears - awesome, vast, incomprehensible - then the mind sinks into silence and the heart cries out "Oh, Lord God!" This is the difference between theological knowledge and spiritual experience, and it's not just a verbal difference, but a vital difference. In Tozer's words, "We Christians should watch lest we lose the "Oh!" from our hearts". I agree - there is something much more wonderful happening when I say "Oh, Lord!" rather than just "Lord!". My heart engages in a different way. This made me think about the importance of praising God, asking myself if praise is as significant in my life today as 30 years ago.

"Praise the Lord!" ~

A Catch Phrase

For me, one of the greatest blessings of the Charismatic Renewal was the realization that I wanted to praise and worship God, not just for what he does, but for who he is. I remember reading books about praise, and really entering into it joyfully whenever we met for prayer. Hymns sung at church took on a fresh meaning, and wonderful new Holy Spirit inspired songs were being written. This was the experience of many of us, and if I had a pound for every time I heard or said 'Praise the Lord!' I'd be a rich man. It became our catch-phrase, and no caricature of a charismatic was complete without it. At first it had real meaning, but when something becomes a habit we easily lose sight of its importance. How sad if 'Praise the Lord!' has become an almost meaningless utterance, when one of the great lessons we have learned is the importance of being a praising and thankful people. We must be careful not to use the phrase casually - true praise will always come from our hearts as well as from our lips, and it will express something we believe very deeply. Today I'm afraid that our familiarity with praise means we do it with less enthusiasm and joy. Often we simply do it less. We get a new perspective when we focus on God in praise. Praise of God should be at the very heart of our lives as Christians, and the Scriptures encourage us to praise God at all times and in all things (Ephesians 5:20 and 1 Thessalonians 5:18). Praise should never depend on how I feel at any given moment, but on my experience of God's nature - loving, faithful, forgiving - and the relationship I have with him. When I look to the Lord instead of at my problems, I'll find a new perspective - his. As the writer to the Hebrews tells us (Heb.13:15) this is a sacrifice, and there will be many times when we experience the sacrificial nature of praise. Often we don't feel like it or want to do it, and that's when we have to forget about ourselves, concentrate on him, and dancing, playing instruments, raising our hands, walking and leaping! There will always be those who criticize any outward demonstration of joy or emotion - Jesus was asked to stop the crowds shouting out their praise (Luke 19:39) but he refused and so should we. Joyful singing will draw people to our meetings and churches in a way that little else will, but unless we're praising God in our private prayer, we're going to find it hard to praise him enthusiastically in public. I've learned that the more we praise him, the simpler the vocabulary becomes. This is an important reminder from Tozer - I used to think this way once, but sadly it got lost somewhere along the way. So as we move into 2009, I'm crying out to the Lord - "Don't ever let me lose the "Oh!" from my heart when I come to praise and worship you!"

get on with it. On other occasions it's spontaneous - we're caught up in the joyful, loving, intimate presence of God our Father, recognizing only that we are his children and turning to him with the word 'Abba' on our lips. That's when praise is easy. The Scriptures encourage us to express our praise in all sorts of ways - singing, shouting, laughing, clapping,

REFLECTIONS OF A PIONEER

WHAT THE LORD IS DOING FOR AND THROUGH

THE CATHOLIC CHARISMATIC RENEWAL by Ralph Martin

The Catholic Charismatic Renewal is a remarkable fulfillment of the prayer of Pope John XXIII for a "new Pentecost" and a remarkable embodiment of so many of the main themes of Vatican Council II. When recent popes have attempted to sum up the main thrust of Vatican II they often do it by singling out two themes: the call to holiness and the call to Evangelization. When Pope John Paul II called the Church to live out more and more a "spirituality of Pentecost" or a "culture of Pentecost" he included in his meaning both the call to holiness and the call to Evangelization. The culture of Pentecost is both contemplative and charismatic. While as a whole Church we're not there yet, we're certainly on the way.

Let me in this short article just pick out a few of the encouraging signs. I see that the culture of Pentecost will indeed spread more widely in the heart of the Church.

I believe that the hard theological and scriptural work that has quietly been done over the years, in particular the work of Fr. Kilian McDonnell and Fr. George Montague, but many others as well is just beginning to bear fruit and has great potential for the future. There is now a solid body of work that establishes that the work of the Holy Spirit and the charismatic gifts are not just the property of a particular movement or group but the property of the whole Church.

The hard work of various national and international service committees in promulgating the fruit of this work has been equally important, as has been the support of particular bishops. And we are beginning to see remarkable fruit.

Let me share an example from my own experience. Not too many years ago, known "charismatics" wouldn't have been that welcome to teach at major seminaries, or if they were to teach, they wouldn't be expected to teach

"charismatic theology." But that is changing. In the Archdiocese of Detroit, Michigan, the Sacred Heart Major Seminary warmly welcomes both seminarians and faculty members who have been deeply touched by the renewal. Spiritual directors affirm and guide their experience in a positive way. Other faculty members lead a prayer community of faculty, staff and seminarians who regularly meet to pray and share and regularly make available Life in the Spirit Seminars within the seminary for others who might be interested.

I have been asked to join the faculty and teach courses in both spirituality and evangelization as an Assistant Professor of Theology. I also serve as the Director of our Graduate Theology Programs in the New Evangelization including an STL degree, which is a Pontifical Degree granted in association with the Angelicum University in Rome. It is the only Pontifical Degree currently being offered on this level with a focus on the New Evangelization, which of course includes major attention to the work of the Spirit. We currently have priests and lay students from 9 different countries studying with us in Detroit in these degree programs. In the courses that I and others teach we study extensively the work of the Holy Spirit in both His contemplative and charismatic dimensions, including the baptism in the Holy Spirit, with special attention to the Acts of Apostles.

Many faculty members and seminarians have been touched by the Renewal and there is a maturity, mutual respect and harmony in the seminary which is a joy to experience. We now have about 100 seminarians and over 400 permanent diaconate candidates and lay men and women studying in different programs. Besides my work in the seminary I also continue my work with Renewal Ministries which works in more than 25 different countries carrying out the mission of renewal and Evangelization. Just recently our Director of Missions, Peter Herbeck, returned from a special consultation we were sponsoring with Cardinal Turkson of Ghana, whose purpose was to assess how the work of Evangelization is going in Africa. The consultation was very fruitful and in due course the reports on it will be made available. One of the highlights for Peter was meeting Bishop Tony Gubji from Enugu, Nigeria who has been implementing the realities of the renewal in his diocese in a remarkable way, requiring the hundreds of seminarians and priests in his diocese to go through Life in the Spirit Seminars and Evangelization schools as a basic part of their training.

As the Church throughout the world is facing great challenges, whether they be the challenge of aggressive, secular, anti-Christian influences, or the challenge of her own weakness and infidelity, or the pressure of Islam, or the "competition" of non-Catholic movements and churches, increasingly the Lord is leading the Church to repentance, humility, deepening faith and a greater reliance on Him. As the Church recognizes her need for more of God's Spirit there are great reasons to hope.

*"Shine in me and so be in me that all with whom I come in contact may know thy presence in my soul.
Let them look up and see no longer me but only Jesus."*

(Cardinal John Newman)
